Always different - Always fun

Kids Prov 123™ - totally original. No two skits are alike. Skit content is suggested by tween/teen studio and out-of-studio audiences. All audiences actively participate in making Kids Prov 123™ a hit. The tween/teen cast use improv acting, dancing, singing, playing musical instruments, mime, poetry and more. Audiences are never bored as Kids Prov 123™ skits are short and fast-moving.

The popularity of improv is undeniable as evidenced by the continuing audience growth. Second City has performed for over 50 years with resident and touring companies performing regularly throughout the U.S. and permanently on cruise ships. Whose Line Is It Anyway has a large audience of adults and teens. Although tweens/teens enjoy adult improv, there is NOTHING for their age group on TV or on-line.

Kids Prov 123™ changes that!

Kids Prov 123™ Educational Value

Educators applaud and embrace Kids Prov 123™ for its strong educational value; teaching concepts such as team building, multi-lateral and creative thinking, extemporaneous speaking, social skill building, communications, listening skills, body language interpretation, acting quickly as well as decision making and non-structured thinking. According to a 13 year-old audience member, "Improv is for all the randoms in life!"

Kids Prov 123™ skits can be performed at home or school through KidsProvisation™, the hilarious, zany board game inspired by the TV series. The combination of Kids Prov 123™ and KidsProvisation™ builds loyal audiences for the TV series.
